A MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR OF WOOLLAHRA

Woollahra Council is very pleased to support the 2004 Woollahra Small Sculpture Prize, which is now in its fourth year.

We believe small sculpture needs a stage of its own and we hope this unique Prize continues to provide an ideal opportunity for domestic and international sculptors to exhibit their work.

The works will be on exhibition at our Council Chambers until the 31st of October. The exhibition is free, I encourage you to promote the exhibition amongst your friends and family.

Local school students will also be visiting the exhibition to learn more about sculpture.

I hope you enjoy viewing the diverse range of finalists' works selected by our judges, Wayne Tunncliffe and Ken Unsworth.

Special thanks go to all the members of the Small Sculpture Prize Committee, our judges and our corporate sponsors, Mudgee Wines, Hugonnet Design Associates, Megacolour and Breakout Design and Print.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR OF THE SMALL SCULPTURE PRIZE COMMITTEE

Now in its fourth year, the Woollahra Small Sculpture Prize has developed a large and loyal following, yet it still remains one of Woollahra municipality's best kept secrets – a showcase of the Nation's finest small scale sculptors for those lucky enough to chance upon our exhibition. Again, you won't be disappointed but will be impressed with the quality of the work displayed in 2004 in historic Redleaf. This is an opportunity to be stimulated and excited by the breadth of imagination and talent on display in an intimate setting, more familiar to debates about issues such as rates, rubbish and development applications.

'Sculpture' has over recent years become somewhat of a buzz word in the visual arts community. From the Macquarie Bank National Gallery of Australia National Sculpture Prize to the Helen Lempriere National Sculpture Award to Sculpture By the Sea. Yet the Woollahra Small Sculpture Prize stands proudly alongside these Awards offering a prestigious and valuable prize for sculpture of no greater than 80cm in any dimension. The standard of the exhibitors is further enhanced by the quality and professionalism of the judges, this year Wayne Tunnicliffe, senior curator at the Art Gallery of NSW and Ken Unsworth, himself one of Australia's greatest sculptors.

As the chair of the Small Sculpture Prize Committee, I wish to thank my outstanding and enthusiastic fellow members, Stella Downer, Natalia Bradshaw, Michael Hedger, Roz Feitelson and Kevin Berry; Councillors Isabelle Shapiro, Keri Huxley, Christopher Dawson, Tanya Excell and wonderful Council staffers, Kylie Walshe, Jo Jansyn, Justine Delohery, Clare Singleton and Breda Cosgrove. This is surely one of the most efficient and enjoyable Council committees!

Finally, I am delighted that the initiative of the Woollahra Small Sculpture Prize is flowing on to more sculpture in our municipality – in public places, within residential and commercial developments and in our gardens.

Thank you for your continuing support!
